Redcliff Loses Final Game In Softball

Safeways Keeps The Trophy For Another Year

By missing several flies in the field and by getting none of the breaks from the umpire, Redcliff girl softballers lost the final game in the local league with Safeways last Sunday afternoon by a score of 10 to 7.

For the first five innings the game was very evenly contested with the score 7 to 5 for the Safeways. In their half of the sixth Redcliff tied the score, but when Safeways came to bat for their half of this frame they got in three runs, and as Redcliff failed to tally in their last time at bat this ended the game.

There were a number from Redcliff at the game, and each one has a different reason for the defeat of our girls. In the opinion of the Review it was simply costly errors in the field and chiefly the failure to catch the fly when the bases were occupied. Each fly that was dropped cost one, two and once three runs, when a catch would have meant, instead, one out and nobody advanced. It was unfortunate. Fielders who had been making sensational catches all season missed them in this game.

By winning the game Sunday Safeways keeps the Mowatt Paper Co's trophy for another year. Redcliff girls and fans congratulate them on their successful season.

Mrs. B. Hurlbert was the charming hostess at a miscellaneous shower given at her home last Wednesday in honor of Miss N. Collins, of Medicine Hat, a September bride elect. The house was tastefully decorated with yellow flowers for the occasion. Six tables of what were engaged in play during the afternoon, the honors going to Miss N. McKillop, of Medicine Hat, the bridesmaid to be. Miss Collins was the recipient of a large number of dainty and useful presents. After the presentation of the gifts, dairy refreshments were served, and a most enjoyable afternoon was brought to a close. Miss Collins is to become the bride of Mr. Edwin Miller, a former Redcliff boy, early in September. Besides Miss Collins and Miss McKillop, other out of town guests were Mrs. G. Collins, and Mrs. Voigt, both of Medicine Hat.

Was Among First Settlers of The Bowell District

Mr. Robert Thomson, one of the pioneers of the Bowell district, passed away in the Medicine Hat hospital last Wednesday. The remains were shipped to Brooks, where he deceased has been residing lately, for interment.

His accounts of his experiences and amusing incidents of the pioneer days always riveted and entertained ready listeners.

Deceased, who was familiarly known as "Bob," was a kindly soul who always had a good word to say for everybody. He had a philosophy all his own and it wasn't a bad one at that.

Town Council Had A Quiet Session

J. O'Leary waited on council and asked that town make some arrangement for a better approach to his garage from the gravelled portion of Broadway. He claimed it was not only most inconvenient as at present but by turning in from the highway cars would soon destroy the crown of the gravelled road. The town foreman was instructed to have a better approach made to this garage.

Town auditors submitted the report for the half year showing the town's affairs and books were in a satisfactory condition. On motion of councilors Broughton and Newnam the Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to refund taxes collected in error. To Mrs. Peterson, of Minneapolis.

Establish Weather Depots

Plan New Meteorological Stations Throughout the Empire

Proposals for the establishment of new meteorological stations throughout the world and for the provision of competent instruments to provide accurate meteorological data for the benefit of agriculture, are receiving the attention of the British and provincial governments.

Plans for the establishment of such a service were laid down by the federal and provincial governments in the report made by Hon. J. P. Bryant, K.C., chairman of the joint commission on conservation and afforestation, and chairman of the joint commission of the three provinces.

The proposals embrace the establishment of meteorological stations with up-to-date equipment at 100 federal experimental stations maintained by the provincial governments. The data and reports of these stations would be supplemented by data from similar stations located at strategic locations, in order to have records from all areas of the provinces concerned.

Peasants Had Good Ideas

Really Solved Problem Of Water-melon Surplus In Bulgaria

Overproduction of watermelons has been solved by the peasants near Peshkera, Bulgaria, without consulting an economist for advice. To the nearest village, village of St. Constantine, some thousands of watermelons are sold, which have more than they can eat, take their surplus to the market, and then they are sold to the peasants. The peasants "take as many as you want, and leave as much money as you want." They fail to pay a reasonable sum for the melons, the rustic melon they show a thriving business, and no racketeers have yet robbed the till.

A Godsend To Schoolboys

Recent Invention Is Wonderful Machine Which Solves Equation

One of the most recent and most recent scientific discoveries is R. M. Mallock's invention of a machine which solves simultaneous equations. It consists essentially of a machine of transformers each with two windings. By adjusting the number of turns on each of these windings, an electric current through one of the transformers, the machine is made to function and the solution of the equations may be read off directly by turning a number of knobs. As many as ten equations can be solved simultaneously.

A Novel Wireless

Conference Telephone Used At Stockholm Great Advantages To Delegates

At the World Power Conference held in the Stockholm central house a striking technical novelty was introduced during sessions only at conventions to listen to lectures in several languages simultaneously while moving about and without being disturbed by noise or by conversations between bystanders.

This new contrivance, called the conference telephone, controlled by the L. M. Ericsson Telephone Company, is a portable wireless receiver outfit of tiny dimensions consisting of a coil antenna, placed around the shoulder, a small receiver box fixed in the button-hole or placed in a pocket and a hand phone. The transmitter antenna is mounted, around the walls of the conference room, so that the bearer of the receiver outfit can stand or move anywhere in the room while listening to the lecture, undisturbed by conversation of other members.

Another great advantage is the possibility of interpreting a lecture in different languages. The interpreters sit at an adjoining room and send their interpretations over different wave-lengths for each language. The listener can then choose the receiver outfit tuned for the wave-length of the language he prefers to hear. This will naturally greatly shorten the duration of the proceedings and forms an elegant solution of the difficulties previously encountered at conferences when using the costly and complicated method with fixed telephone receivers at each seat with cords that are apt to get entangled and cause inconvenience.

This revolutionizing innovation was enthusiastically received by the 900 members of the conference who admired other electric installations, including signal lights in different colors indicating the different languages used and an automatic telephone system between the conference officials.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A SMART DRESS—SLIM—ELEGANT—AND CHARMING

It is amazing at how easily it is fashioned.

The modelled bodies cut in one to where the lower skirt joins, the marvellous toward slenderness.

The pointed outline at back and front are decidedly length giving features.

Very blue crepe silk or similar street, made in the design. The trim is of blue and white crepe silk.

Has Praise For Russia

Canadian Journalist Says Country Will Command World Attention

One of Canada's noted journalists, Robert J. Cromie, who was in New York on route home from a European trip, said Russia's "great progress for a number of years is going to command world attention, world admiration and, along certain lines, world emulation."

Cromie, editor and owner of the Vancouver Sun, said the Russians, "who in the beginning of an economic boom."

"It there is one country in the world today which has found a real way to do so and is wholeheartedly going it, that country is Russia," he declared.

Cromie said he felt the principle of capitalism is sound, but capitalism as we have over-emphasized it in the United States and Canada and England, creates production and distribution and thereby prevents the growth of appetites and desire.

"Where our economy is so wrong that, as I see it, we emphasize the preservation and turnover of capital instead of emphasizing the turnover of capital."

With his business growth ahead, the Canadian said, "Russia is the safest credit bet available in the world today as a business enterprise. I should feel more comfortable having money coming to me from the U.S.R. than from any other place in the globe."

The Soviet Union, Cromie said, "has virility, ability and tremendous pride in the achievement and obligations of their new regime."

Something To Measure

All Canadiana Honor Memory Of Sir Wilfrid Laurier

Down in Athabasca, Quebec, they are transforming Sir Wilfrid Laurier's old home into a national shrine. Everything is to be restored as Sir Wilfrid left it, even to the paper on the walls. His study will be recreated as he was, and a room he devoted to pictures and statuary of old rural life will be preserved as it was when Sir Wilfrid made the house his headquarters.

This is something in which all of us, no matter what our political affiliations, might wish to have a part. For as political controversies recede, the worthwhile things are seen in perspective, the memory of Laurier, the great Canadian, one who lived and served this country with a glory and a heroism to us in perpetuating his name and fame. Canadiana honor themselves—Ottawa Journal.

No Thought Reader

They were "sitting-out" at a dance, and for ten minutes he had sat gazing at her without uttering a word. "Obviously," she thought, "he wants to kiss me, but it's too early. I'll give him a lead."

So she murmured: "I believe I can read your thoughts. Do you want your powder puff?" he said "I think nothing of it." A woman for the time being attractive than a shiny nose.

"I Like To Go When I Have To Go"

Traveler Gives Some Reasons Why He Likes To Take A Train

When I make my plans to leave for somewhere at 7 o'clock I like to wait around till 8:15 before the last member of the party is ready. It wastes my time, spoils my disposition, and makes me late at the other end. That's why I like to take the train—it gets on schedule and arrives on time.

I hate to sit cramped for hours, accommodating my legs and feet to extra luggage on the floor. I like to sit comfortably stretched out when I travel—and so I take the train.

I don't like to dodge around giant inter-city trucks. They frighten me. They look dangerous. They make good drivers nervous. They make strong men to swear and lovely ladies to scream. It's almost as bad to be scared half to death as it is to be killed. Talk about road hogs—these inter-city trucks are more than hogs—they're insistent, roaring, roaring, roaring.

They're so big they'll nose with any ordinary car—but they never bother me when I ride on the train.
